

Items Chosen	Why You Chose / Significance	Items Ignored & Why
Jungle machete	To clear the path through the jungle and make way to the nearest ranger tower.	Ignored corporate team flag – not essential for survival; symbolic only.
Compass / Satellite map of the area	To understand the surrounding area and navigate effectively.	Ignored pocket mirror – less useful for signaling compared to signal flare.
Waterproof matches and firestarter	Helps keep warm at night and protect from wild animals like snakes and spiders by maintaining a fire.	Ignored small radio – may not get signal in remote jungle and uses battery power quickly.
First aid kit	For treating injuries if any team member gets hurt during the journey.	Ignored hammock – comfort item, but only one person can use it.
Signal flare	To signal a helicopter or rescuers by firing it upward to show location.	Ignored notepad & pencil – secondary importance compared to survival gear.
Portable water purifier tablets	To purify river water and make it safe for drinking, preventing illness.	Ignored mosquito net – useful but not critical compared to water and navigation.
Pack of protein snacks	To maintain strength and energy throughout the journey to the ranger tower.	Ignored solar-powered emergency beacon – sunlight is weak in the rainforest, so it may not charge well.
